1. The amendment filed 11-3-03 is objected to under 35 U.S.C. 132 because it introduces new matter into the disclosure. 35 U.S.C. 132 states that no amendment shall introduce new matter into the disclosure of the invention. The added material which is not supported by the original disclosure is as follows: "Inwardly extending portion 48 directs particles that pushed outwardly by the centrifugal force to enter opening 47." at page 3 lines 23-24.

Applicant is required to cancel the new matter in the reply to this Office Action.

2. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Specifically in claim 7 of the conduit having a plurality of inwardly extending portions that direct solids toward said through openings, said portions extending adjacent to said through opening and being downstream with respect to said through openings. This is a new matter rejection.

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Watts(US Patent No. 4,278,550).

Watts teaches a centrifugal separator device(Figs. 1 and 4) comprising a wound conduit member(3) having an inlet(2) and an outlet (10) and defining an outermost wall(5) having a plurality if through openings(4) (see Figs. 3-4, cols. 2-3), and means for generating a pressure differential(inherent) between the inlet and the outlet of the conduit to flow a mixture comprising at least two fluids having differing densities through the conduit whereby the denser fluid is forced out through the openings(4) by the centrifugal forces and separated from the lighter fluid(col. 2 lines 30-45, col. 3 lines 20-45). Watts further teaches housing means(13) for collecting the denser fluid and openings 4 disposed at an angle(Fig. 4).

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Watts(US Patent No. 4,278,550) taken together with Lavigne(US Patent No. 2,015,076).

Watts discloses the device essentially as claimed, supra, except for the conduit having a plurality of inwardly extending portions that direct solids toward said through openings, said portions extending adjacent to said through opening and being downstream with respect to said through openings. However Lavigne does disclose such feature(unlabeled in Fig. 6 and 9 in Figs 2-3. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to include such extending portions as in Lavigne in the device of Watts in order to divert and accumulate separated fluid as suggested by Lavigne (col. 3 lines 33-40).

7. Applicant's arguments filed 11-3-03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that the openings of the instant invention are disposed at an acute angle downstream of the flow while those in Watts are upstream of the flow. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e. downstream acute angle) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993). All other arguments have been considered but are deemed to be persuasive.

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
